WE NOMINATE

Nicholas Gabriel Harsanyi, 49-year old native of Budapest, Hungary, and an enthusiastic Princetonian of a quarter-century's standing, who is making a major contribution to his adopted state — and to music in America — as Music Director of the New Jersey Tercentenary Festival of Music. As one humid summer evening streams into the next, and as enthusiasts by the 100's pour into the Festival Pavilion at the Westminster Choir College, the "Harsanyi influence" becomes increasingly apparent in a program featuring 22 outstanding soloists and works ranging from the massive Verdi Requiem to the jazz improvisations of Benny Goodman.

While the critics have been unanimous in their praise of the Harsanyi-directed Festival Symphony, and are finding the 16-day Festival "an artistic success" from all points of view, the single most exciting development to date has been the debut of the 25-member Concert Orchestra of New Jersey. This group of top-flight instrumentalists is to be a permanent, professional organization and, starting with the musical year 1964-65, will constitute the nucleus of both the Trenton and Princeton Symphonies, organizations which Harsanyi has been directing with a singular degree of success since their founding in the early 1950's.

The concept underlying this new orchestra, which will mean that the two symphonies will have more cohesion from season to season, is a bold move towards raising the Princeton Area's musical standards to unaccustomed heights. Of commensurate importance, and a project closely related to Harsanyi's labors over the years with musical organizations on all levels of experience, is the objective to have the Concert Orchestra stress young people's concerts, thereby "helping to provide an awareness of the pleasure to be derived from listening to, as well as participating in, renditions of good music."

In preparing for the Festival, a $200,000 venture, Harsanyi, head of the instrumental department at the Choir College, has displayed the kind of demanding musicianship that has made it possible for him to combine teaching with membership in several of the world's celebrated string quartets, including the Lener and Roth Quartets. In his early Princeton years, on leave of absence from Westminster, he toured four continents with the Lener Quartet and has frequently devoted summers to the Roth group which is widely known for its recordings of the six quartets Mozart dedicated to Haydn.

The son of a publishing company executive and a product of the University of Budapest's Academy of Music, Harsanyi was called here in 1938 on a teaching fellowship and turned in such a superlative job that he was elevated to the Westminster Faculty the following fall. During World War II, like the great majority of "new Americans," he served with the Armed Forces, actually living a "soldier's dream" with the Army. As a private, without benefit of stripes or bars, he conducted the Army's Symphony and in that capacity "commanded" an outfit which included officers up to the rank of colonel as well as the concertmasters of several top symphonies.

For his dedication to the cause of "Music in Princeton"; for his major role in making possible what has been termed "the cultural high water-mark of this Tercentenary Year"; for understanding that music is a splendid antidote for the "dust of every-day life"; he is our nominee as

A HOME AWAY FROM HOME: Wally Byam Caravanners Clay and Esther Garrison in their trailer at the rally site in nearby Blawenburg. By Monday, some 3,000 such mobile units will have converged here for the Byam Club's seventh international rally. For a report on the numerous pleasures of this nomad life, see below. ## This Is PRINCETON

CITY ON WHEELS
 Byam Rally Biggest Ever.
 Over the gentle hills and curves of The Great Road, just beyond the four corners of Blawenburg, is a scene which few Princetonians may ever see again. And, once seen, will not forget.
 It's a huge encampment ("rally" is the word) of some 3,000 very special travel trailers in which about 10,000 people have gathered until July 6 for the seventh — and biggest — international rally
 of the Wally Byam Caravan Club. By day, it resembles a gleaming, silvery city. Its streets laid out in an orderly, wheel- and - spoke design; at night, with lights twinkling cheerfully from the concentric circles of trailers, it looks not unlike a motorized army bivouac.

What is the Wally Byam
 Club? Its members, or caravanners as they are called, total 40,000 in the United States and Canada. They all own a certain make of trailer — not just through happenstance but because it is credited with being the finest, most durable made.

Wally Byam, who died in 1962, was to the travel trailer what the Wright Brothers were to the airplane and what Henry Ford was to the automobile — only much more so. Where his counterparts were primarily inventors and pioneers, Wally Byam, according to one visiting club member, was an endlessly dedicated and inspired inventor, perfectionist — and infectious stimulating and universally beloved leader.

Right from Scratch. "Wally Byam," says a California member at the Princeton rally,
 "caught the trailer bug early.
 But he could see from the start
 that the flimsy, clumsy
 'house trailers' were entirely wrong for what he had in mind. He wanted comfortable, safe travel and fine accommodations in a trailer which would go wherever his car would."

The caravanner continued:
 "So, only because he was Wally Byam, the next step was easy. He built one, a true travel trailer, in his backyard —
 and, before he knew it, there was a line of trailers through camp, but mostly through ingenious design and his own, careful workmanship, in the trailer business."

"Wally" was the almost unbelievable realization of an idea like that of the men (there must be thousands, actually) who dream of building a better, entirely different boat in their spare time," said an other Byam caravanner who has logged some 97,000 miles including 1,750 to be at the Princeton Rally. "Only, if ever,
 the idea becomes fact, the 'dream boat' usually becomes an unsalvageable submarine
 when launched."

Not so with Wally Byam and his travel trailers. "Success was immediate, and his trailer's superiority was obvious — though perfection was a word which Wally would not accept," his caravanners agree. His continuous experiments and improvements in structural design and interior outfitting are still being carried on.

For Housing? Never! The
 5,000 units at the Princeton Rally are shining evidence of what a travel trailer should be. First, they are expressly built for travel — specifically not for propping up on embroideries to serve as an inexpensive, ungraceful, tax-skipping form of lodging.

The exterior "skin" is of aluminum, fashioned in the same general manner as airplane surfaces and for the same reasons: lightness, ruggedness and reduction of wind resistance. They are entirely self-contained, i.e., they can travel for extended periods of time, the entire breadth of the United States for example, without need for any outside sources of water, electricity or other utilities.

Inside, the decor is handsome — usually including colorful examples of, say, materials made and dyed by Central American Indian tribes or handsome carvings from Alaska or perhaps a small, graceful figurine from South Africa. Or similar decorative items purchased as mementos of a member's expeditions with the club. All of the trailers are equipped with ideally compact refrigerators (we bought this frozen beef two weeks ago in Colorado), says one club member, pointing to the freezing compartment, "and we'll have it for dinner here at our Princeton Rally tonight." Gas stoves and ovens are standard.

 ("Try a piece of cake my wife
 baked in this oven yesterday in Brattleboro," a Vermont caravanner urges over a freshbrewed cup of excellent coffee). All trailers, of course, also have fully equipped bathrooms (most of them with both shower and bathtub).

'Oh, What Fun It Is to Ride.'
 While the new-sprung Princeton suburb of 10,000, with its constant round of entertainment for all ages, enjoys its temporary community living in almost identical travel trailers, it in no way resembles or has the atmosphere of a mobile, look-alike Levittown.
 True, all of the units have the same general appearance
 even though their cost ranges from $3,200 to $15,000 and their length from 17 to 30 feet).
 But the all-pervading spirit is one of fun and frolic — and freedom.

Also, in spite of the attractively varied, but invariably attractive interiors of the trailers, there are some notable characteristics which Wally Byam trailers and car-avanners alike have in common. The trailers are as meticulously neat and comfortable
 as any home or small yacht,
 and there is no feeling of being cramped for space. There's a place for everything, and everything's in its place.

It's the Spirit. And the car-avanners, in their distinctive organizational berets, are as friendly and as gracious and as cheerful a group as you could never find living side-by-side in vacation cottages on the crowded shores of some Lake Stuligebottom. There's a pleasant absence of any of that "flowdy, folks, when ya leavin'"

Instead, the members' approach to any non-caravanner invited to visit the site is one of warm, genuine hospitality.

The caravanners, obvious enthusiasm for travel and for one another is heartwarming. Their love of travel and adventure is paramount, but their gregarious interest in others is a close second.

"There's a strong element of the explorer in all of us," says one Michigan caravanner. "Travel for a Wally Byam Club member doesn't mean driving down Route 66 against Gee whizz, Texas sure is big." For us it means, in addition to the fun of a rally, like this Princeton one, to

Rally 'Open House' July 4

The Wally Byam Caravan Club rally members have extended a cordial invitation to attend an "open house" and mammoth parade at their Haverburg rally site on July 4.

The rally area will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on that date. The parade will start at 10. Because of the exceptionally large number of club members attending the rally, the grounds can be open only to rallyists and those in official business except for the Fourth. But, for that date, the caravanner executives say, "Walk right in, and welcome!"

ploring the byways rather than touring the highways."

A Caravanner is . . . The Michigan caravanner, explained, as well as a typical example of what a caravanner is and why he wants to travel from Point A to Point B, is further illustrated by the "mayor" of Princeton's temporary Bynumville, H.C. Club President Eas Axtell, a retired lawyer and banker from Grandview, Mo.

"I've been at our home in Grandview for only 16 days this year," Mr. Axtell says. "I myself and my wife, my retirement was almost a rebirth — a new life, new friends, new experiences which we never thought possible or knew existed. Incidentally, nearly all members of the club own permanent homes. These are vacation trailers only. So we don't roam around the land like gypsies or 'trailer bums' creating local social or tax problems."

"Since I joined the club, I've never stayed in any one place for more than five weeks," said Vic Raney, first vice-president of the club. Mr. Raney was previously in business in Alaska. He estimates that perhaps half of the club members are retired — not necessarily because of age but because they were able to quit the business world young.

Clay and Esther Garrison, members of the Byam Ohio Unit with their home in Dayton, are enviable examples of the club's membership. Both (like all of the 10,000 at the rally) are dedicated caravanners.

Traveling Man, Mr. Garrison owns his own business in Dayton and, as he says, "I've got an assistant manager the likes of whom you've never seen. Because of him, my wife and I are able to go on Byam caravans and rallies often."

"We bought our first travel trailer in 1957 when I was 42, and we really fell in love with the life that first year we spent all but one month on tour. Our mileage on our first trailer was about 850 miles and we've got nearly 11,000 on this new one."

Mr. Garrison continued. "When I bought our first unit, one older member of the club said he didn't think the life of being a caravanner would stick — either for my wife or myself. Seven years and over 100,000 miles later, the doubling member is now only one of my closest friends."

A past-president of the club's Ohio Unit, Clay Garrison mentioned one distinct difference between the Byam club members and run-of-the-mill travel trailer tourists. "For one thing," he said, "we never use trailer courts. Here's a list of things listing each member's name — and how many of our first-year accommodations for the hospitality is wonderful."

"Let's Go To Costa Rica." Mr. and Mrs. Garrison, who think of a caravanner trip to any place like Hudson Bay with all the equanimity a Princetonian would show about a trip to Penns Neck, are typical of the explorers who belong to the Wally Byam club, rather than the trailer crawlers who identify pilot less rugged trailers. "One of our more interesting trips with Byam caravans was to Central America," they said. "Quite a bit of excitement, as a matter of fact, but luckily all safe escapes."

They named a few. "We climbed up a volcano called Irazu one day — and, right after we'd left it, it blew its stack sky-high, and after completely dormant for over 100 years. Maybe it was only accustomed to ex-cess and scared by our trailers."

"Anyway, it was nice of it to wait until we were safely out of the way before it let go. Our trailers are as safe and as strong as can be, but molten lava might have been too much."

Guatemala had one of its earlier reactions when they got there, the Garisons said. "The roof of the local post office was decorated with machine guns ready to fire," said Mr. Garrison. "So we scurried to the nearest store for a couple of machetes, just in case. But, like any tropical storm, the revolution ended quickly, and all we have to show for it is a couple of unused machetes."

Wrong Turn. But Guatemala wasn't through with the Garisons yet. "Somewhere we took a wrong turn one morning and ended up on nothing more than a burro trail. The road we should have been on consisted easily through a valley."

"Our road started off as a trail, got narrower and bumpier and steeper," Mr. Garrison said, adding, "Much steeper. And when you come to hairpin turns at more than 2,000 feet, straight down, with no passing room and no fence between you and zero altitude, you suddenly realize that this is something more than just plain sightseeing."

TOPICS Of the Town

FIRE DESTROYS HOME
All Seven Occupants Safe.
Seven Princeton residents narrowly escaped a fire that destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mantell at 78 Fairway Drive early Friday morning. The home is located in the Brookstone area of Princeton Township.

Awakened by the crackling of flames shortly after 3:30 a.m., Mrs. Mantell was able to alert the other family members and to get them all out of the house just minutes before the entire structure became a sea of fire.

Uninjured were Mr. and Mrs. Mantell, their four small children, and a servant. A general alarm, sounded at 5:44 a.m., brought all three companies of Princeton's fire department, but the firemen were not able to stop the seething flames before the interior of the house had been completely gutted.

According to Mrs. Mantell, she was aroused by a crackling sound coming from the utility room. Upon investigation, she reported finding an electronic circuit board blazing.

The exact cause of the fire is still undetermined, authorities say, and no estimate of damage has yet been announced. Assessed value of the house for taxation purpose was $49,600.

Mr. Mantell is a public relation consultant with offices in both Princeton and New York. Mrs. Mantell is co-founder of Caedmon Records.

BOROUGH NAMES SCHOOL
Seans Non-Resident Male.
John Witherspoon School is the name selected by the Princeton Borough Board of Education for its planned $2.5 million elementary school at Walnut Lane.

Other matters on Tuesday's 30-item agenda included a policy change for non-resident students, tennis court conflicts point bids (rejected), a football scoreboard and reassurances to West Windsor. The session ended with a resolve to ferret out students illegally enrolled.

Graham Rohrer, president, announced that Superintendent Chester R. Stroup was suddenly stricken in Rochester, N.Y. while visiting his son, and is in the Rochester Hospital undergoing tests. William Rhodes, assistant superintendent and secretary to the Board, acted on his behalf.

Shut-outs? Aroused by a recent recommendation that the high school be limited to Borough and Township students, West Windsor Board of Education requested the Board to keep it informed. "This will automatically be done," Mr. Rohrer said.

(The proposal was made by the Township Citizens' Advisory Committee on Long-range Plans. It also urged the Township to buy land for a high school site, as an anchor to windward. The report of another group, the Borough-Township Joint School Study Committee, has not been completed.)

Seniors Only. In a policy switch, the Board agreed to allow Jay Gallagher, a high school senior this fall, to stay in the school, even though his recognizable remnant of furniture in this room is the charred frame of an antique pump-organ. All seven occupants of the home safely escaped Friday morning's fire, one of Princeton's most serious in years.

Witherspoon Perpetuated

A Presbyterian minister born and educated in Scotland, John Witherspoon was a leading educator of 18th Century America.

He was president of the then "College of New Jersey" for 26 years, master of a Princeton grammar school and a founder of the town's first public school. Defender of John Paine and a signer of the Declaration of Independence, he was hanged in effigy and memorialized by sculptors.

Referring to the present Witherspoon School soon to be abandoned, Graham Rohrer, president, noted "We are perpetuating a school name."

Board member Bryan Moore added, "This is especially nice. My mother taught in the Witherspoon School."

parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Gallagher have moved to Cleveland, O.

A year ago, the Board released its "school district residents only" ruling to include the children of teachers in the public and private schools. The new policy is subject to exploration of the state laws on non-resident students.

As the ruling now stands, a satisfactory student who has completed three years at Princeton High School may be enrolled for his senior year on a tuition basis by his non-resident parents. Under this ruling, the request of Robert L. Smock of Franklin Township on behalf of his daughter Polly, a sophomore next year, was denied.

Tennis Tangles. The nets are down at the high school tennis courts and will stay that way until the contractor, F. C. Feise Co. of Narbeth, Pa., finishes the surfaces. The Board is withholding about 40% of the $14,635 contract until work is completed, a matter of about three weeks.

In the meantime, the Board will try to straighten out the conflicting schedules of the Community Tennis Program, the YWCA and YMCA tennis programs and its courts. "And let's not forget the general public!" Mrs. Eve Kraft appeared for the first two groups and Walter Sorg for the YMCA.

The organizations were asked submit minimum and maximum requirements by the end of this week. The matter of fees will be discussed, in view of maintenance and repair costs.

Slow But Steady. The revised land sale contract with Westminster Choir College for part of the site of John Witherspoon School was signed last weekend, Mr. Rohrer announced. It takes into account the provisions required by the Township Planning Board. "We've had every delay known to man," he said. This was held off because the attorney for the Choir College was called for two weeks' Army service. But we'll get this school built yet." He added that ground-breaking will be in late September or early October of this year. "The building should be completed around Christmas vacation, 1965."

Contraband. The smuggling of students into the Borough school system was discussed at some length. "Don't we regularly have Trenton students living here with relatives?" Dr. Robert Lively asked. John A. Buckland commented, "I think there are more stories about this than there are children involved."

"We'll have to make an attempt to ferret out the non-residents," Mr. Rohrer said. "This is in violation of state law."

Mr. Rhodes told the Board that residents sometimes come to the schools announcing "My cousin's coming to live with me." Such individuals, he said, are required to certify that they are the child's legal guardian, that they are responsible for his maintenance, and that the child is declared on his income tax as a deduction.

finally reached the top of the ridge and then made it safely down a boulder-clogged route which was only a few degrees less than a vertical drop. Ah, trouble, they thought, what's that?

They soon found out. At the foot of the hill was an ancient-looking stream. Innocent that is, except for no bridge and a sandy bottom which clamped the trailer tight and refused to let go.

Horsepower Plus. The Garrisons were sitting there in their car in the middle of the river, probably thinking their own thoughts about Guatemala. Eventually, for no particular reason at all, which is the reason for everything in Central America, a huge truck lumbered up.

"It pulled out our car," Mr. Garrison says, and then hooked onto the trailer. Couldn't budge it. Maybe it was being held by the Inca divinities who have missed their timing at the volcano.

"Eventually, someone wandered off and got a man with a jeep. Both jeep and truck pulled, and still no go. Another long conference. Finally, a piece of rope was tied to the jeep and about 100 Guatemalans appeared from nowhere and grabbed it. That did it. The truck, the jeep, and the 100 Guatemalans all tugged—and out came our trailer, somewhat damp but unbruised."

The Finish. "By the time we reached our rendezvous with the rest of the caravanners, we'd covered about 50 miles in 11 hours. An average of 4½ miles an hour, which must be some sort of non-speed record. Oh, yes, the temperature that day must have been about 120, which didn't help much."

From Hot to Cold. But, a Wally Byam Club caravanner looks on such incidents as perhaps inevitable and happily infrequent, but at least instructive. Nor are they likely to leave him in any way disheartened.

The year after the Central American tour, Clay and Esther Garrison again headed west from Dayton. Only this time they and their fellow caravanners turned north instead of south, off to visit Alaska.

Things were somewhat different, they report, at Point Barrow than they had been in that steaming river valley in Guatemala. Instead of 120-degree temperatures, it was cold enough to freeze the tusks off a brass walrus.

"We went to church at Point Barrow, and it was so cold everyone wore parkas throughout the service. What's more, even the hymn books were fur-lined—so you could tuck your hands in the fur while you sang. Didn't even freeze a finger," the Garrisons say.

Clay and Esther Garrison have been on many a Wally Byam outing since then, and their original enthusiasm for caravanning is unabated. The Princeton Rally is the seventh, out of seven possibilities, they have attended.

And it's by far the biggest—the 3,000 trailers this year, for instance, are estimated to include 200 from Florida alone, a number equal to the entire attendance at the first rally in 1959.

The Princeton Rally won't include 100 Guatemalans to help pull any errant trailers out of streams. Nor will it include School's out, summer's in and maybe the pace will slow a little. If the humidity stays as high as it was last weekend, the pace may slow to a crawl.

Ninety-plus on the thermometer, and nearly that in humidity was the story more than once during the past week. The next few days may not be as bad, but they won't be wholly dry, either. Saturday showers are a possibility.

furlined hymnals. But, to quote only one Princetonian whose opinion is typical of the many: This is the biggest rally of the Wally Byam Caravan Club so far. I hope it's also the best—both up to now and for years to come. Individually and collectively, the caravanners merit no less."

FOR SCRANTON: ONE YES; ONE NAY: Can Scranton stop Goldwater? No, says George Gettman (left) but Richard Fuerst says, yes. For more on the Pennsylvania governor's chances, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think Gov. Scranton can stop Sen. Goldwater from getting the Republican nomination or not?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

George Heltman, Stockton, mason: I think he won't be able to — that's not the way I want it, but I think that's the way it will work out. I think Goldwater blabbers too much; he makes too many rash statements.

Richard Fuerst, Flemington, mason: Yes, I think Scranton can stop him. I hope so anyway. I'd rather Scranton get it than Goldwater. Goldwater's always complaining — even with members within his own party. I don't think he would make a good president.

A. H. O'Bryan, 18 Charlton Street, professor of economics, Rutgers University: It's a strong possibility. I think a lot of people who are supposedly committed to Goldwater are only temporarily committed. Goldwater doesn't sit easily on their political stomachs, let's put it that way.

Mrs. Norman Seltzer, 24 Woodside Lane, housewife: I

Person To Person

We heard of this item, written a few years ago by an eleven year old girl. It first appeared in the Birmingham Post-Herald. She had written it when assigned by teacher to write a paragraph about something she hated. "I thought and thought but I guess I like everything, except boys. This doesn't include men, just boys. I really don't hate boys, but they bother me. I know the world wouldn't be anywhere without them, but sometimes I wish they weren't here. They'll always be here so I'll have to get used to them. I hope I do pretty quick because I know some real cute ones." And while you're smiling here is another one we liked: "The next things in life are free... it's the worst things that are so expensive." Sometimes, in jest, there can be a most truthful idea. If you think back on the worst purchases you ever made they are the ones that looked cheap, and turned out to be the most expensive in the long run. We work hard to make sure you get only genuine bargains from us... may we please serve you? Kammeler Buick-Pontiac Co. Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, 521-2222.

this country and Goldwater represent a minority. I'd like to see Goldwater stopped, but I'd like to see Romney get it.

Frank Grlipson, Wally Byam Caravan, from California, retired civil service worker: I'm answering you as a Republican — who has voted straight Republican for the past 51 years but if Scranton doesn't I'm voting Democratic for the first time. IBJ will get my vote, and do you want to know why? One of the first things Goldwater said was that he would put social security on a pay-as-you-go basis. No one can save money anymore. It would wipe out all the savings of the elderly. He also said he would take the U. S. out of the United Nations but then he said later he didn't mean that — like Scranton he says what he means and stands behind what he says.

Susan Brown, 78 Jefferson Road, PHS senior: I hope so. Whether he will — around here I think he will — around here anyway. From what I hear, Goldwater isn't too popular in Princeton.

Stephen Foster, Philadelphia electronics engineer: No, I don't. I think Goldwater is too far ahead. He has far too many delegates in his camp right now.

Charles Sommers, 254 Jefferson Road, physicist: It's just possible if Goldwater gets the nomination, the "brain drain" will be reversed. Instead of British scientists coming here, American scientists will be going abroad. I really can't see Scranton doing it; not if Goldwater is going ahead.

Mrs. Jeanne Stone, 24 Mercer Street, housewife: I hope so. I must say good luck to him, but I do wish he had started sooner, though. It's the professional politicians against popular opinion, and these things can get tricky.

Robert Peyton, PHS senior, chairman of state organization of Teenage Young Republican Club and member of County Teenage Republican Club: I think it's a very slim possibility that Scranton will stop him because Goldwater definitely now has the number of votes he needs to win the nomination. However, not all of these are definitely committed — many who are committed to him are delegates who have the option of changing their opinion. In the end, I think Goldwater will get it, though, and I'm not displeased about that. There is also the possibility of a Scranton-Goldwater ticket because Scranton could take the eastern states.

Mrs. Beatrice Cicero, Kalamazoo, Mich., housewife: Yes, I think so, very easily. I think Scranton is representative of the majority of the people in water has all the delegates he says he has. I don't think Mr. Charles Mager, Hope, well, housewife: I think he'll have some success. He'll gain a few delegates here and a few there. Scranton can do a lot of campaigning in a few weeks and I feel there will be a number of defections from Goldwater to Scranton. But Goldwater is way out there in the lead at the moment; whether Scranton can convince enough Goldwater delegates to support him, I just don't know.

David Gore, Old Road, research associate: I don't think Scranton, himself, will get the nomination but he will use it as a tool to stop Goldwater. If Goldwater doesn't get the nomination I think someone else, other than Scranton — some compromise candidate — will be called to rally anti-Goldwater forces.

Henry Woldorf, 30 Mercer Street, men's clothing salesman: I don't think so. I think he started too late. Goldwater has too many delegates already sewn up.

Tops In Princeton

The topless bathing suit will not be worn in Princeton, unless the wearer buys it outside of town and smuggles it in.

A fast survey of Princeton shops gives a straight "No," right down the line: "No, we don't plan to carry it," and "No, we've had no requests."

Bamberger's has had one or two queries but isn't sure whether they were serious or just curious. "It's not only in poor taste but undoubtedly illegal, and we don't plan to have any in stock," is the Bamberger's position.

"Of course not," says Eric Mihan, who owns The English Shop. "We don't have that kind of woman in Princeton. It's too bad in a way — I wish we did!"

IT'S NEW

To Us

COLOR ON THE COURSE?

Of course! There's so much bright plumage on the golf course this season that it's a rare bird who can keep his eye on the ball.

The offering this season at Saks is—slacks. The Saks slacks are spread out for your selection at the men's store on Nassau Street, and the color range is so exciting that all kinds of people besides golfers are sure to be tempted.

Canary yellow, rich moss green, powder blue, a color they call "Carousell," which looks like cranberry to us, and for the neutralists. The fabric is washable rayon-dacron with a shantung weave.

With the slacks, you have a choice of little knit golf shirts ($7) in just about the same colors, with the addition of navy. These are classics, with collar, two-button neck closing and a little shield on the left side.

For cool days, there's an orlon sweater with a deep "V" cardigan neckline in black with narrow red piping, white with blue, bright red with navy, or canary with old gold.

If a man wants something different in a knit shirt, Saks has the scull shirt, with collarless neckling curving down to a three-button closing. The stripes, running vertically, are royal, navy, or red, with white $5.

STRIPES MAKE IT SLIM: An arnel blend in denim blue with white stripes is typical of men's summer wear at Saks University Shop.

Swimmers are going to want the set of shirt-jac and boxer-trunks made out of what looks like unleached muslin, striped narrowly with denim red or blue. The shirt-jac is a real shirt, and goes on easily and properly when you want to leave the poolside for the clubhouse.

And on Monday morning! Well, Saks has the answer to a scorching summer day when business is business. It's a business shirt in white Oxford voile, an all-cotton which combines sheer comfort with sturdiness of fabric. Porous, air-conditioned, and yet impeccably correct in its button-down styling, this is the shirt-of-the-year in our opinion. Short or long sleeves, $8.50.

Need a jacket? An arnel blend, rather like fine denim, holds its own better than any other summer fabric you can name. Saks has it in denim blue with white stripes, for $37.50. (Those stripes make it a slimming kind of jacket, by the way.)

Pale aqua and white combine in narrower, seersucker-style stripes in a second jacket, and seersucker itself appears in watermelon red stripes, alternating with white. The lining is watermelon, too. (Also in grey or blue.)

ONE! TWO! THREE! FOUR!

See the Muscles? They were exercised the other day when we were at Tiger Auto. The commotion at the Witherspoon Street store comes from an Isometric Exercise Kit which is rapidly making everybody muscle-bound. It costs $5.50 and consists of some chrome bars and black stretch webbing and a book of instructions. We plan to start tomorrow.

The Viat people spend all their time and energy making exercise equipment, and Tiger seems to have it all. There are skip ropes, a thing to increase your hand grip, a chest pull with a spring as light as our uncle's wallet, and a rowing machine for a quick, before-breakfast cruise.

Our favorite is a $7.95 gym bar which you install in any doorway. Since it holds itself up by pressure and not by suction, it will sustain as much as 400 pounds, and if it has to do that kind of work, then it's really needed in your household, take it from Tiger!

With this bar, which can be lowered or raised depending on who's using it for what, you can chin yourself, hang like a dead weight (wonderful for shoulder muscles) or amuse the kiddies on a hot afternoon.

fores fill the screen for nearly three hours, involved in everything three directors could conceive.

The plot centers on three generations of the Prescott family as its members move West, encountering Indian raids, tinhorn gamblers and outlaws, buffalo stampedes, and every other bit of western lore. The film offers some spectacular scenes, including a runaway train that crashes in magnificent fashion, hurling logs, machinery and bodies in every direction.

Jimmy Stewart, Debbie Reynolds, Gregory Peck, Henry Fonda and Eli Wallach are all featured, plus a number of other stars. This over-sized movie opera attempts to overwhelm
the audience and very nearly succeeds. The picture lacks continuity, however, and thus comes out somewhat uneven, but is well worth seeing for its large-scale action and beautiful color photography.

SELLERS FIDDLERS WHILE WIFE BURNS: Capucine, Peter Sellers wife in "The Pink Panther," obviously thinks that bed is no place for a violin concerto. Now at The Prince and the Playhouse.

Seller's wife, "We must find that woman," Sellers declares, meanwhile earnestly spinning leaning on it and caroming off a large globe, absently minding the floor.

"Panther" is named for a valuable diamond which Niven is out to get and which Sellers, unaware of his wife's double life, is out to protect. All of the attendant hanky-panky takes place at a fancy Italian ski center.

Some of Sellers' stuff is pretty funny; and Capucine, as his wife, does a very capable job as a comedienne. But they are not enough to keep "Panther" from getting tired and tiresome before it ends.

NEW STRAND

Dr. Strangelove or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb (now through Tuesday) has been called the best American movie in years.
More than that it's been called the best movie, regardless of country or origin, in years.

Briefly, very briefly, it can be described as a nightmare comedy. The theme: what would happen if an idiot or a madman in this case, one General Jack D. Ripper, of Burpelson Air Force Base (we wrote to declare his own private, demented atomic war against the Russians. Naturally, all hell would break loose in the strictest sense of the term, and this is exactly what happens.

"Dr. Strangelove" is caustically satirical, bitterly amusing — and thoroughly engrossing. It is coherent, comic and cruel, yet utterly convincing in its supposition that such a world-shattering occurrence could ever happen here.

The word here is: don't miss it if you have the wit and na-turity to withstand a biting satire on any number of our country's atomic age aristocracy and in of uniform.

It's New To Us

Campers will buy a new air mattress for everybody in the family. These new ones have a built-in pump, and all you have to do is pedal with your foot and the mattress is inflated.
No more separate pump. No more lugs. There are swim floats, too, in vinyl or canvas
like the mattresses.

An easier way of getting yourself through the water is Sylvan's outrigger canoe made of heavy ribbed vinyl with not one but two outriggers, for real stability. (You should see the waves in our pool sometime!) It's 45 inches long, green and white.

The Tip-A-Tub is a mixing bowl 23 inches in diameter and 12 inches deep. Uninkable and puncture-proof, it will keep the kiddies giggling and happy all afternoon. It's deeper than the Bowl of Fun, which you may have from last year.
The Bowl is available this year,
too, still 36 inches across and big enough for two children to ride in, roll in and fall out of with a tremendous splash.

Actually, we like Sylvan's shark and whale about as much as anything. These are suriboards shaped and painted like shark or a whale, designed to give confidence to a shaky young swimmer who's just learning how to stay afloat. Uninkable, of course.

Pool games at Sylvan this year include a floating golf game, in which you stand at poolside fully clothed (if you like) and hit 18 floating golf balls into those three floating doughnuts out in the pool. If you don't sink a hole in one,
you're sunk, as you can see.

Water baseball has three anchored bases and an anchored home plate, plastic ball and bat, and the bowling game has pins that can be bowled over,
but won't float away. No, Daddy, there are no floating crap games.

Round-Up

GOVERNOR HUGHES has just announced the appointment of a fellow Princeton resident, Norman Williams, as executive director of the New Jersey Transportation Committee. . . . Organization was created to work up all-inclusive transportation policy in the State . . . and to suggest ways of coordinating transportation programs.

Mr. Williams, of 74 Allison Road, is a member of the Borough Planning Board. . . . and from 1961 to last year served in Venezuela as head of the Guyana Project involving the planning and construction of a major new city on the banks of the Orinoco River. . . . Mr. Williams will take over his new post in mid-summer.

HEAT was the significant factor about last week's weather, just in case you didn't feel it. . . . From a daytime low of 68° on Tuesday, the mercury rose steadily to an insufferable, cool, willing high of 83° on Sunday.

Faced with the grim prospect of attending a wedding in Chestnut Hill on Saturday at 4 p.m. (and in 90° heat), one Princetonian considered the comparatively cool comfort of wearing a Madras jacket. . . . Then, remembering that anything rather than dark red would shock the very proper

Library Summer Hours

Keeping track of the public library's summer hours is like following the clues in a who-dunn-it, but it can be fun. Here they are:

The library will open every morning at 8:30. It will close at 1 p.m. on Thursdays and Saturdays.

It will close at 9 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and at 6 p.m. on Tuesdays. On September 15 it will resume its full-winter, spring schedule.

Philadelphians fight down to the soles of the Congress gaiters, he struggled into a suit—and almost melted away. "Like wearing an electric blanket in a sauna bath," was his description of the reception.

INTEGRATION in Princeton, what it is, what it isn't and what it should and will be, was the subject of a perceptive article in Sunday's New York Times Magazine. . . . Titled "Princeton's Lesson: School integration is Not Enough," the article traces three phases in the Princeton process of integration, calls them "three acts in the racial drama" here.

Act I: School integration in 1948. . . . Act II: The "do-nothing" era from 1948 until 1960. . . . Act III: The establishment of civil rights groups, other organizations on all fronts with similar objectives, starting in 1960 and still continuing.

The article, by Peggy Streif, includes an amusing summary of Princeton's white residents. . . . She describes them as "a highly intelligent, articulate, aware group, zealously intent upon thinking good thoughts, doing good deeds, promoting progressive liberal causes, being deeply concerned with an ailing world and being, according to some, more than a little pleased with their own very excellent qualities." . . . Ouch!

ANTI-GOLDWATERITES were cheered by an announcement from New Jersey Senator Clifford Case on Tuesday that "I'm for Bill Scrantom." He continued: "There are only two real possibilities for the Republican nomination now . . . and of the two Scrantom is the one who represents the thinking of the Republican party and of the people of New Jersey generally."

In conclusion, Senator Case said: "As a delegate, I had hoped to be able to follow the New Jersey tradition of remaining uncommitted until the convention. . . . But it appears that, if leadership is not taken now, the convention would be foreclosed against Governor Scrantom before it met."

DISARMAMENT DIRECTIVE: Under the heading of "Welcome to Camp Woo-Po-Mog" (that's the YMCA day camp for very little boys comes from it), "Campers prohibited from bringing axes, knives and the like into camp." . . . Aw, ma, why can't I bring my switchblade?

STOLEN BIKES, over 30 of them, have been reported to Borough police in the past two months. . . . Most of them still missing. Police Chief McCrohan urges the following safety measures be taken by all cyclists:

- Record serial number of bike (or some other unmistakable identifying mark), where and when purchased and general description of bike on a card.

- Always lock bike when you park it, keep it in a garage, if possible (a number of them have been taken from porches).

- If bike is stolen, report it to police immediately—don't wait a week or so. And, if you see suspected non-owner of a bike, call police right away.

- Parents should cooperate if son comes home with a bike that is not his. Too many bikes, Chief McCrohan says, are being "conveniently found" by non-owners.

- Finally, the Borough police now have about 25 unclaimed bikes at headquarters. Anyone missing a bicycle can come to see if his is one of them.

THE CLASSES OF 1939 at Yale and Princeton enjoyed saluting each other this month on the occasion of their 25th reunions. Western Union enjoyed the exchange almost as much, transmitting a Latin greeting from New Haven to Princeton but seeing the acknowledgment go by mail from here to New Haven when Princeton classics instructor John J. Keaney peeped for his side in Greek. The modern-day descendants of Samuel Morse just couldn't transmit the Greek alphabet.

ley area was formed this week. Announcement of the formation of the new committee coincided with a statement from the State Highway Department that Route 95 would probably connect with Route 295 east of Pennington and southwest of Lawrenceville.

No specific alignment has been announced; in fact, state officials have indicated that there is no specific alignment as yet. Public hearing will be held when a route has been worked out, probably within the next year.

The Hopewell group named five residents to an executive committee. They are Charles C. Townsend Jr., A. V. S. Olcott Jr., Mrs. T. Hart Anderson III, Thomas Dent and David L. Carter. Members of the group plan to work closely with a similar citizens' committee in Montgomery Township.

The new committee opposes the highway because it believes the artery would remove from the tax rolls 36 acres for each mile of highway, a loss which could be made up by inviting heavy industry into the area because of inadequate water and sewer facilities.

In addition, the Hopewell committee believes that Route 95 would destroy prime residential land and "change forever the area's unique rural residential character, not only by its physical presence, but by the tremendous pressure it would put on zoning laws for motels, drive-ins and housing developments."

Similar objections have been expressed by residents of Montgomery Township. However, at a public meeting held last month by the Montgomery Township Planning Board, the chairman of the Township's industrial commission suggested that the highway might attract the retailers that would be needed to support burgeoning residential development.

ASKS FOR SCHOOL SITES
Board Seeks Information, If The Township builds a high school of its own, where is the best place to build it?

The Township Board of Education decided on Thursday night to ask the Township Planning Board for a list of possible Township high school sites thereby taking the first step in the light of the new Citizens' Advisory Committee report, released two weeks ago.

In that report, the Committee said it hoped that a separate Township high school "would not be necessary, but urged the school board to plan on one, just in case."

"This is merely a request on our part for more information," explained Mrs. Jess Epstein, board member who proposed asking the Planning Board for its opinion on sites. The planners will be asked to report back to the school board by September 1.

"We are now studying the Citizens' Committee report," said a Robert Trudel, who presided over Thursday night's regular meeting in the absence of Rich Pearson, president. "When we have become saturated with the report, we will hold one and possibly two public meetings on the recommendations."

Toward Another Report
Meanwhile, another committee is working on a school report. This is the joint school study committee that began work last June for both Borough and Township Boards of Education. The coordinator of this study, Mrs. Mildred Goldberger, sent out a questionnaire to all Township and Borough teachers, and that questionnaire lit quite a fire at the Township Board's meeting on Thursday.

Half a dozen Township teachers came before the board to tell what one of them called a "loaded" question on Princeton schools. The question in question asks teachers for their anonymous opinion on Princeton schools with which they are not affiliated professionally.

In the first place, one teacher protested, a reply could not possibly be anonymous because the teacher is asked, on another page of the same questionnaire to give the name of his or her school, position, marital status and so on. Teachers do not have to give their names, but as they pointed out, this hardly protects their anonymity, considering the other information they are asked to supply.

In the second place, the teachers were not sure what the question meant: were they as Township teachers, being asked to comment on Borough schools, and vice versa? (The same questionnaire is destined for both Borough and Township. Or were they, as teachers of Community Park, for example, merely being asked to comment on Valley Road?

Anonymous? A second question, in which teachers are asked to write "anonymously" about their experiences in the Township school system also drew fire. "Beyond the bounds of propriety," commented one teacher.

Mr. Trudel said that earlier questionnaires mailed out to every parent in Borough and Township had elicited such wonderful response (98% with "zealous comments from many") that Mrs. Goldberger had decided to poll all teachers, hoping for the same response.

Board member L. E. Purvis said bluntly that he thought the questionnaire was a poor one (Mr. Purvis is president and chairman of the board of Gallup and Robinson) and he made a motion to ignore it, a motion that died because nobody seconded it.

FESTIVAL VISITOR: Motion picture actress Iona Massey was among the many attending the opening night program of the Festival of Music now being held at Westminster Choir College. For a review of two of the first concerts, see Music in Princeton, page 27.

In the end, board members suggested that teachers re-examine the pages of the questionnaire when they turned it in, on that date sought by the study committee would be separate from anonymous opinion. The board also gave the teachers more time to complete their questionnaires, and said they could mail in the forms directly to Mrs. Goldberger.

NURSERY MAN KILLED
Crushed by Machine, Theodore Kenny Sr., 46 of Ridge Road, Monmouth Junction, an employee of the Princeton Nurseries, was crushed to death Thursday under the end of a large hay conveyor.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Princeton Hospital following the accident at 11:30 a.m.

Mr. Kenny, who had been employed there for 25 years, and a fellow employee, John Kneeph, 31, of Lake Road, Princeton, were attempting to hook the large, two wheel conveyor onto a tractor. Mr. Kneeph told State Police that when Mr. Kenny stepped under the conveyor to steady it, the end swung back down on top of him. The hospital said Mr. Kenny died of internal injuries.

A veteran of World War II, Mr. Kinney is survived by his wife, Madeline Brown Kinney, who was admitted to the hospital suffering from shock after learning of her husband's death. Also surviving are two sons, Theodore Jr. and Bruce, a brother, Richard Jr. of Willingboro, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Clayton of Monmouth Junction and Mrs. Robert Grove of Middletown, Del.

The service was held at the Kingston Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Clarence Briley officiating. Interment was in Elm Ridge Cemetery, North Brunswick.

With Rockets, Salute. The annual July Fourth fireworks, sponsored by American Legion Post 76, promise to blast out of Palmer Stadium this year as never before.

According to chairman Nathaniel McKee, 300 rockets and bonfires will be released during the singing of the national anthem. "New Jersey's 300th Birthday" will be written in the sky plus a host of other spectaculars created by fireworks expert Dean Iorio of Flemington.

The July Fourth program will begin at 7:30 p.m., with a concert by the Princeton Community Band, led by Richard Gerstenberger. The Colors will be presented at dusk and

Help End Coin Shortage

The New Jersey Bankers Association is urging New Jersey citizens to join in an effort to combat an acute shortage facing the nation.

Frederic S. Bayle, NABA president, has announced.

The bankers have passed a resolution appealing to the state's citizens to help relieve the coin shortage by emptying bureau drawers, cookie jars, and piggy banks returning coins to circulation. "If all New Jerseyans will return coins to circulation, it will go a long way towards easing the current shortage and help insure the growth and prosperity of New Jersey," Mr. Bayle commented.

The resolution states that the inadequate supply of coins in determining economic growth in both business and resort areas it also urged member banks to encourage customers who operate vending machines, and parking meter officials to make more frequent collections and urged the Treasury Department to defer mining silver dollars until enough other coins are available.

It's Hemingway on the first ballot. All four book outlets reporting to TOWN TOPICS' monthly best-seller list gave Ernest Hemingway's, "A Moveable Feast" as the top non-fiction book in Princeton during the past month. ## Topics Of The Town

A native of Toms River, Mr. Staples graduated from Oberlin in 1952 and received a master's degree in library science from Rutgers in 1957. From 1957 to 1961, he was with the Public and School Library Services Bureau of the state library. He became assistant director of the Summit Public Library in 1961.

Mr. Staples is currently attending a workshop on new library buildings and furnishings in St. Louis. He will begin his new position in September with Mrs. Annabelle Bramble, serving as acting director of the library in the interim.

THREE ARE APPOINTED

To Recreation Board. Three Princeton Township residents have been named to the new Borough-Township Joint Recreation Board, and their appointment will be officially approved at the next public meeting of Township Committee on July 6. A fourth member has been invited by letter to accept a position on the board.

Borough Mayor Henry Patterson said at his weekly press conference on Tuesday that three of the four Borough members have agreed to serve and that the names of all four would be announced when the final member had accepted.

William B. Bonthron, of the Great Road will be chairman of the Township group and the Township's member of the two-man management committee of the board. Other members include Mrs. Richard Schoch, 159 Valley Road, and Harry Volweider, 28 Woodland Drive. The fourth position has been offered to John R. Yosi Jr., who is currently in Ireland on business.

The Township members will serve with their Borough counterparts in developing and managing the new Community Park, now under construction. Succeeding the Township Recreation Board, they will also have responsibility for all the Township's separate recreation programs.

Mr. Bonthron, a long-time Princeton resident, is a certified public accountant and manager in the firm of Price Waterhouse & Co., New York City. Mrs. Schoch is a member of the Township Board of Education and is the immediate past president of the Council of Community Services. Mrs. Schoch first made the proposal that the Borough and Township begin an early search for a qualified recreation director to head the Community Park project.

Mr. Volweider is president of S. T. Peterson & Company, a contracting firm in Montmouth Junction. A chemical engineer associated with S. T. Peterson & Company, Mr. Yosi is a member of the present Township Recreation Board, and was a spokesman in presenting the plans for Community Park to the public. If he is unable to accept the position, it is planned to invite another member of the present Recreation board to serve, in order to assure continuity.

In announcing the plans for the new Board, the Township Committee made the following statement:

"The utmost thanks of the entire community belong to the members of the Princeton Township Board of Recreation Commissioners, who have completed with distinction the difficult planning phase of the Community Park program. To all members of the Committee, Chairman Melvin B. Gottlieb, Mrs. J. V. A. Fine, secretary, Robert W. Sinkler, Gerald A. Speedy, and John R. Yosi, we extend our personal appreciation for the dedicated and effective way that they have carried out their responsibilities and we note that, when Community Park is brought into being, it will be, in large measure, a monument to their efforts and skillful planning."

SEVEN ARE FINED

In Borough Court, seven Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tans Jr. Jon Christiansen, 17 Alexander Road, and Edward R. Farley Jr., 188 Parkside Drive, were fined $35 and $16 for speeding. Linwood Pannell, 22, 138 John Street, paid fines of $15 each for charges of late inspection and driving on a permit without the company of a licensed driver.

For failing to set a hand brake, Vitamote Proccacini, 49, 114 Linden Lane, was fined $15, while Dennis P. Sullivan, 23, Graduate College, was fined $10 for improper display of plates. The Division of Motor Vehicles announced the suspension for 30 days of the license of Logan A. Pemberton, 22, of Lincoln Highway for speeding.

In criminal court, Clarence DiDonato Jr., 27 Harris Road, and William C. Ritterson, 21 Lawrenceville-Princeton Road, were each fined $25 as disorderly persons. They pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and loitering on the Princeton University campus during reunion weekend.

MERCER FOR SCRANTON County Committee Named. Mrs. Regina Meredith of Hopewell Township has been named co-chairman of the Mercer County Scranton for President Committee, serving with Bruce Schragger of Trenton, who is chairman.

Mr. Schragger has appointed the following Mercer Republicans to positions on the new committee: Alfred M. Ziegler, former chairman of the Mercer Young Republicans, for West Windsor; Mrs. Lewis Hicks, formerly head of the Lodge for Trenton group and LeRoy Hepburn, former Township Committeeman, both for Lawrence Township.

Philip Lloyd and William S. Borden Sr. will represent Trenton. Mr. Borden is a former Republican County chairman and member of the State GOP leader in Trenton's South Ward.

"Missing" Ellis Named.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Princeton-Yale desire to ignore the existence of one another has been going on longer. I am sure, than any of us can remember. True to tradition, this week's issue of Town TOPICS announced the recent graduates of Princeton and Harvard who live in this town, yet failed to mention those of dead old Ell.

To do justice to my class-mates, a few of the Yale graduates who come to mind are: Tom Jones, Bill Morse, Joe Dilby, Jerry Waletsky, John Stein and Paul Steiger. Not a bad showing for a Tiger-orientated town.

ANDY HARRIS

7 Cleveland Lane
(Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS' listing of the 1964 graduates of Harvard and Princeton who live in this area, while omitting Yale names, is purely a reflection of the varying policies followed by the Departments of Public Information at the three Universities. Where Harvard and Princeton mail out lists of area graduates for newspaper use, Yale does not. Many thanks to Yaleman Harris for bridging the gap.)

Death Penalty Opposed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Legislative Commission in study capital punishment in New Jersey will hold a public hearing at 10 a.m., July 10, in the Assembly Room of the State House at Trenton. Testimony at the hearing, Princeton, will not only be authorities concerned by profession with punishment and reform but other interested citizens of stature as well.

Most experts consider capital punishment to be a barbaric anachronism in an enlightened society. And yet the death penalty maintains its legal existence, largely through disinterest, misinformation, or evasion of responsibility on the part of the electorate.

First of all, a position for or against the death penalty is taken almost solely by emotion although the facts are plain and available. The argument for retaining the death penalty came down to two points:

(1) Vengeance must be served. Clearly if we understand the causes of criminal behavior, the emphasis should shift to prevention and treatment rather than punishment. If we understand the causes of criminal behavior, the emphasis should shift to prevention and treatment rather than punishment. If we believe sentence is ultimately to reform the criminal, the death penalty is in violent contradiction with that purpose.
(2) The death penalty deters would-be murderers. Statistics do not support this point: states of like character without the death penalty exhibit no appreciable difference in the homicide rates from states with the death penalty. Moreover, the state, by maintaining capital punishment, gives legal sanction to violent solutions.

Secondly, too many citizens, even those who do become informed, fail to take action. Action is complex in a mature society; few of us will ever be in the position of signing a legislative bill to abolish capital punishment or any other legal bill. The Denmark example during World War II of the cumulative effect of individual acts and one action added to another is effective. Right now an opportunity for speech, albeit indirect, is presented by the New Jersey commission to study the death penalty. It is imperative that concerned citizens lend support to the movement by attending this public hearing and/or writing to the commission. Its Secretary, David Goldberg, State House, Trenton, New Jersey.

Air Squadron Says Thanks.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Mercer County Air Force Association Squadron will not meet again until September. Until then, I wish to thank you on behalf of the entire Squadron for the cooperation you have given us in publicizing our monthly meetings.

We have acquired a few new members from the Princeton area in the past year. We look forward to an eventful year come September.

Thank you again.

Members of the county committee plan to welcome the Pennsylvania governor when he arrives at Newark airport Tuesday at 2 p.m. He will be in New Jersey to speak at the Republican fundraising dinner.

WELCOME TEACHERS
PAHR Plans Picnic. A picnic-outing in Marquand Park will be held Saturday from 2-5 to welcome the 42 physics teachers from southern Negro colleges that will join Princeton University's Summer Institute for Teachers of College Physics.

The picnic, sponsored by PAHR, is open to any Princeton family. Most of the teachers who are coming to Princeton will leave their families behind and live in dormitories while they are here. PAHR hopes that contact made at the picnic will lead Princeton families to invite the teachers into their homes.

The Summer Institute is a seven-week program designed to help teachers improve their teaching through the study of a new course developed by the Physical Science Study Committee.

Princeton families who plan to attend the picnic should take food for themselves, and enough extra to share with one of the guest teachers.

WOMAN, 84, INJURED
killed, 7, Hit, Too. An 84-year-old woman driver and a 7-year-old boy pushing a bicycle were among the parties involved in eight accidents last week — five in the Borough and three in the Township.

The elderly driver was Mrs. Andrew C. Imbrie, 20 Hibben Road who was involved in an accident with a huge mobile tractor crane on Nassau Street Monday morning near the intersection of Chambers Street. She was treated at Princeton Hospital for a fractured rib, lacerations of the knee and forearm, a cut over her left eye and released.

The mishap was triggered when Mrs. Imbrie pulled out from her parking stall in an attempt to get around a large truck that was double-parked. In doing so, she crossed the center line and caught the mobile crane traveling in the opposite direction.

The impact forced the Imbrie car sideways into Nassau Street and into the rear of a parked car owned by Mrs. Lilian M. Goeller, 20 Manning Lane. Lawrenceville Mrs. Imbrie's car was towed away. Police made no charges.

Last Wednesday afternoon, Peter Bernard, 7, son of Mrs. John F. Bernard, 308 Western Way, escaped serious injury when he was hit by a car at the intersection of Western Way and Harrison. At the time, he was pushing his bicycle, police said.

The impact threw both Peter and his bike into the air. He received abrasions and contusions of the chest, knees, elbows and rib section. X-rays proved negative, he was released from Princeton Hospital.

Witnesses reported that the driver, Mrs. Margaret Marino, 32, of Bordentown, was not driving fast and that loose gravel in the intersection caused her right wheels to slide while she was braking. Police made no charges.

According to the police report, a car was involved in an accident on the right side of the road, near the intersection of the road and the railroad tracks. The car was a 1964 Ford Mustang, owned by a Princeton resident. The driver was a 21-year-old male, who was not injured. The car was towed to the Princeton Police Department. The accident occurred on Tuesday morning at 7:30 on Mount Lissa Road. The car was involved in a collision with a mailbox belonging to Thomas J. Gentry Jr. Mount Lissa Road was also damaged.

FIVE YEARS AGO

June 23, 1958, The Princeton Township Board of Health was planning an ordinance proposing minimum standards for the condition and maintenance of homes and dwelling units within homes. Some of the minimums: hot and cold running water; no more than 10 to a bathroom; no tenants to sleep in a basement.

If such standards might seem unnecessary legislation, they weren't. Township health officials could recall clearly one home in which 40 people lived in seven rooms. There was no kitchen, no running water, no window screens, no fire escapes, only two toilets and basins. An appalling case of ultra-togetherness.

At the same time, five years ago, Princeton High School had been given a clean bill of health academically. A school evaluation committee of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools rated PHS "excellent" after a three-day inspection of the school.

Theater, live and on film, was keeping Princeton audiences happy and busy in late June 1959. The University Players had just opened with "Playboy of the Western World" for what was to be their most successful season, and the Bucks County Playhouse was celebrating its 20th birthday with "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

The Garden and the Playhouse had four excellent films scheduled, including "The Nun's Story" and "Battle-ground." And, if you wanted to catch a double order, the Lawrence Drive-In would show you both "Gigantis, the Fire Monster" and "Island of Lost Women" — and throw in a free ball-point pen, a rain hat, and toys for the kiddies as well.

TEN YEARS AGO

June 24, 1948, The future of July Fourth fireworks in Palmer Stadium looked bleak ten years ago. Cancelled the previous year because of repairs being made in the horseshoe, the show had been called off again for the same reason.

Said one disconsolate rocket buff, "The whole fireworks program may now go sailing, never coming back." When he hears the 300 (or 300+) giant salutes at the end of '48 celebration, he should be as defiantly reassured of its continuation.

After a typically lush and verdant early spring, Princeton was starting to look like the Gobi Desert ten years ago. Rainfall in recent weeks had been more than four inches below normal, and the forecast for the first half of July was hardly encouraging, little rain, blazing heat.

A TOWN TOPICS type made The New Yorker just ten years ago: "SUMMER RENTAL: Five-room house with wood paneling plus small guest and garage in rear. $80 a month." Asked The New Yorker, "What's the little stranger's name?"

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

June 22, 1943, The Princeton baseball team had beaten Yale in the annual Reunion weekend game, just as it recently did in 1961. It thereby had tied for (and subsequently won) first place in the Eastern League. In 1964, the team ended the season in a tie—but not quite first place. Eighth.

Fifteen years ago a proud advertisement in TOWN TOPICS hailed what was called "America's 4-MOST car most beautiful, most roomy, most sturdy, most performance." In spite of its apparent superiority, however, the well-lauded Hudson ceased to sell, left the market, and became known only as "America's 4-MER 4-MOST car."

TOWN TOPICS reaches every home in the Princeton area by its own forces, no other Princeton newspaper does half as well.

WELL, DONE, JOHN: John Lehmann, (center) son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lehmann, 34 Knoll Drive, receives three popcicles from Edward Hawley, owner of Hawley's Meat Market, for getting straight A's on his report card. Looking on are Robert Dentz (left) and Sandy Proaccini. A student at Valley Road School, John was promoted to the eighth grade. Mr. Hawley donated free popcicles to students from nearby Community Park and Valley Road Schools. In all, he estimated he gave away at least 300. (Staff Photo)

THEY BOTH MADE IT: Contemplating their report cards are Alba Condo, 9 of 6 Gurot Avenue, and her cousin, Lilianna Lucello, 9 of 64 Harris Road. Their accomplishment of being promoted to the fifth grade at Community Park School was worth one popcicle at Hawley's Meat Market across the street. (Staff Photo)

ETS TO EXPAND: Aided by a $275,000 grant from the National Science Foundation, Educational Testing Service will build this $1,100,000 research center and laboratory on its 350-acre site on Rosedale Road. The new building will enable ETS to expand its research activities in the areas of human behavior, intellectual growth and personality development. Construction will begin immediately with a completion date set for July, 1965.

ETS RECEIVES GRANT

For Behavioral Center. Educational Testing Service has received a grant of $275,000 from the National Science Foundation to assist in the construction of a $1,100,000 behavioral research center and laboratory. Dr. Henry Chauncey, ETS president has announced.

The grant is part of a recently initiated NSF program in recognition of the need of social scientists for research facilities. In commenting on the grant, Dr. Chauncey said: "This new center will give us the facilities to expand our basic research activities in the areas of human behavior, intellectual growth and personality development."

A two-story building with 100 rooms including a laboratory will be constructed on the 350-acre ETS site on Rosedale Road, to be completed in July, 1965. The laboratory, will be equipped with closed circuit television equipment and special facilities for research students. The 12,000-volume ETS professional library and a large computer system will also be available to researchers. Employing a staff of 40 research scientists, as well as additional psychometric fellows, the post-doctoral research fellows and visiting American and foreign scholars, ETS annually spends more than $1,500,000 on research. As a non-profit organization, ETS finances a major portion of its research programs out of its own funds, supplemented by grants and contracts from educational organizations and various governmental agencies.

The new research center will implement the 1947 directive of the ETS founding board of Trustees.

The board expressed the hope that the primary goal of the new organization would be the most painstaking research and critical analysis in areas such as motivation, personality traits, emotional development as well as certain intellectual qualities. The new center will provide the facilities for the laboratory study and experimentation needed to implement the research.

The over-all research program at ETS, directed by Dr. Norman Frederiksen and Dr. John K. Humphill, includes basic inquiries in psychology and education. Among the research projects are studies of pre-school children, the culturally deprived, factors causing student drop-out, the creative ability of individuals, personality characteristics, and mathematical problems of test theory and prediction.

APPOINTMENTS MADE For Woman's Club. Appointments by the Woman's Club of Princeton for the year 1964-65 have been announced by Mrs. John M. Brown, club president.

ANNUAL MEETING SET

For Heart Association. The Mercer County Heart Association will hold its annual meeting this Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Princeton County Club on Route 1. Dr. Ruben R. Pane, Permanent Representative of Paraguay to the United Nations, will be the guest speaker.

Awards will be presented to association members for their efforts to help strike out heart disease, the nation's number one killer. Dr. Aaron J. Heisen, president; Dr. Seymour S. Philo, vice-president; Thomas Maddock, treasurer and Thomas Durand, campaign chairman, will make the presentations.

Dr. John Marshall, membership chairman, will be in charge of the program. The public is invited to attend.

SOLUTION SOUGHT

To Hopewell School Problem. The Hopewell Borough Board of Education has approved a plan to sample community opinion on the various approaches to solving the high school facilities problem. The board is also carrying on discussions with the South Hunterdon Regional Board, the Hopewell Township Board and the Montgomery Township Board which might result in a decision to make a combined study of the problem.

The Princeton Borough Board has advised that its increasing enrollments will not allow it to honor Hopewell's request for a one-year extension to the present contract for high school students. The board will meet with citizens in the near future to study the best solution for the community.

Facts You Should Know About Oriental Rugs

SYMBOLS IN ORIENTAL RUG MOTIFS

- Circular forms symbolizing the sun, are very often woven in Oriental rugs, such as the pine cone, pomegranate, the lotus flower, rosettes, etc. The rosette pattern, often seen in all-over designs, whether derived from the rose, the lotus or any other flower, forms an essentially solar symbol.
- The lotus flower is the symbol of the sun, which opens every morning with the rays of the sun and closes in the evening to acquire fresh life.

Dear Princeton:

(Following is the first of a series of weekly reports written for TOWN TOPICS on the experiences of the Princeton High School Choir on its current European tour. The author is Patricia Bruckney, PHS '64, of 303 Dadds Lane. The title, "Dear Princeton," was originally conceived by Linda Almgren when writing for TOWN TOPICS on the PHS Choir tour in 1962.)

June 15 was the day. 6 p.m. was the time, and steady rain was the weather when we left our parents and friends, their faces shining, on our way to New York City. At 10:45 p.m. nearly an hour late because of the driving rain and visibility hazards in pouring rain, we finally left New York en route to Rome, Italy.

Our flight was one not soon to be forgotten. After setting our watches ahead five hours to 3:25 a.m., try as we did, we were totally unable and soon unwilling to sleep. Dave Bener even tried stretching out unobtrusively in the aisle, but he was unsuccessful.

Before we knew it, we were cruising at 600 miles per hour and 37,000 feet from the earth. The cloud cover was a dense one, but it did not hinder us from enjoying the beauty of the coastline in the early morning, nor of the sights that followed, which included the coast of France and then Normandy, and the magnificent French Alps.

On what a magnificent sight! The splendor of the sharp, jagged peaks and the sweeping green valleys below them, were breath-taking, and the Matterhorn and Mont Blanc were out of this world.

Whenever we flew over especially interesting areas, we migrated from side to side, climbing over each other for pictures and glimpses.

Next the Mediterranean Sea and Genoa, Italy, came into view, and with them came our excitement about landing. We discovered, when we did land, that our treatment from Pan American Airways had been excellent in every way. Captain Pearson had welcomed us personally when we boarded at Kennedy International Airport, and the man who greeted us as we landed in Rome promptly spread out a long blue banner reading "Princeton Choir - Pan Am" and photographed all of us with it.

Here's Italy! As we drove from the airport, on the outskirts of the city to our hotel, Domus Pacis, we were able to see a little of the Italian countryside with its yellow plaster homes, tile roofs, dry fields, circular spreading trees and flowering oleander bushes. Men ride motorcycles everywhere. The people do not seem overly friendly, but the men really make themselves as masculine as they can. They are quite amusing in their honest curiosity and interest in American women.

DISTINGUISHED TEACHER: Henry N. Drewry, head of the History Department at Princeton High School, is one of four teachers to receive the Distinguished Secondary School Teaching Award and a check for $1,200 from Harvard University during commencement week. Nominated by L. David Levenson (right), son of Mr. and Mrs. Humboldt W. Levenson of 35 Westcott Road, Mr. Drewry was chosen from scores proposed by Harvard seniors.

Since our arrival, eyesightseeing has taken almost all of our time. Study Abroad has furnished us with a delightful and excellent guide, and we have also profited from detailed narrations of our two Italian guides.

We have already visited the majority of the famous monuments of ancient Rome, the most memorable of which are the Coliseum, the Pantheon and the Forum. We explored each one extensively, noting in awe every tall or short, simple or ornate structure.

And Rome. Wednesday was our first full day in Rome. We spent four hours sightseeing in the morning and then went to "Il Taccuino," a small restaurant outside Villa Borghese in downtown Rome. There Elsie Thompson met Liz Coffin, a freshman at Princeton High School last year, who has been living in Rome for almost 15 months.

After lunch, we were free to go or sight-see until dinner time. We were somewhat stranded until 4 p.m. when the stores reopen, but from then on, we covered ground fast. By the time we boarded the bus again, we had purchased everything from charms to sculptures and had walked from one side of the city to the other.

Rome is simply fantastic in its circular organization and wealth of Ancient Roman and Greek tradition — around every corner. It is a glorious city.

The days have been full, interesting, and enjoyable so far and certainly are promising to continue to be so. Tomorrow we will visit the Vatican and St. Peter's Basilica and hope to see the Pope. Later, we will travel to Hadrian's summer palace and several museums and galleries.

Our trip still seems to be one marvelous dream. Thank you for making it a reality.

Princeton Club Forms Here. "Why isn't there a Princeton Club of Princeton?" For at least three decades, Princeton alumni living in the area have intermittently been asking themselves and each other this question without answer. There are at least two reasons why there should be one. As one graduate said recently "For better or worse, Princeton is home for more Princeton alumni than any other place except New York." "For better — if you happen to be a Princeton alumnus or are willing to accept one for what he is. For worse — if as one non-alumnus resident said after first seeing Nassau Street on Reunion Saturday "Now I know how a Muslim living in New York feels on St. Patrick's Day."

Second reason for all their strength in numbers, Princeton alumni who live here say they know less about the ways and whereabouts of the present University than some lone graduate halfway up Mount McKinley. University's annual Chataqua circuit will reach him.

At long last, however, it seems as if these alumni are going to get the local hook-up they've wanted. For on May 13, a few Princeton University graduates got together and formed the Princeton Area Alumni Association, set up a temporary executive committee, elected a nominating committee, fixed the date for an organization meeting, and closed the meeting by singing words which they could member of "Old Nassau," one chorale local Eli muttered.

MUSIC In Princeton

FESTIVAL OPENS

Three For 308. With a fanfare of brass composed for the occasion by George Lynn of Princeton, the New Jersey Tercentenary Festival of Music opened on Friday evening at the Festival Pavilion on the campus of Westminster Choir College.

It was a gala and happy occasion, musically and aesthetically as well as historically. Festival designers have arranged a delightful series of teilled gardens and allees around the main Festival tent, lighting them with tall torches, table candles and unobtrusive electric lights and enclosing them with walls of bamboo matting, creating the here campus lawns of a kind of spacious public garden which is a charming accompaniment to the music within. It is the pleasantest spot in Princeton on a warm summer evening.

On opening night, following Mr. Lynn's "Festival Fanfare," Nicholas Harsanyi led the Festival Symphony orchestra in a carefully precise reading of Beethoven's Third "Eroica" Overture. The orchestra's articulation was excellent, and solo passages for flute, horn and trumpet were clear and without fluff.

Having shown that his orchestra can perform a classic without topographical error, Mr. Harsanyi proceeded to a contemporary work, Roy Harris' well-known Symphony Number Three, written in a single movement.

Here again, the Festival Symphony was on the nose.

Roy Harris on Princeton

A beaming and genial man, his hair grey and thinning but his eyes young and full of sparkle, listened Friday night while the Festival Symphony played his music, took a bow with the orchestra, and then, after the concert, talked for a while about Princeton.

"I came here with my bride in 1936," Roy Harris recalled, and now we have five children! We used to walk up and down Nassau Street and have dinner at Lahiere's Restaurant."

But Princeton has changed since 1937.
Oh, no, no, it hasn't changed," Dr. Harris instantly replied, "Princeton has not changed. The core..." and he made a compact sphere with his hands... "the core and the spirit of Princeton, they are the same."

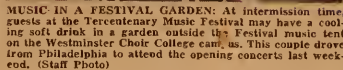

The Harris work is indubitably "American" (it was begun in Princeton and completed in New Jersey). It is without the obvious folk elements of Aaron Copland. It is compact, vigorous, terse. It makes its statement with a forthright voice, develops the statement with sturdy conviction and steps when it has made its point.

All these elements of firmness and conviction were present in Mr. Harsanyi's performance, and Dr. Harris, taking the end of the symphony's second movement to indicate by his broad smile, the pleasure he himself felt in the orchestra's interpretation of his symphony.

On To Prokofiev. In the final portion of the program following intermission and brief "Opening Ceremonies" with Dr. Lee H. Bristol Jr., president of Westminster Choir College, and Governor Richard Hughes, the Festival Symphony appeared with pianist Byron Janis in a performance of Prokofiev's Third Piano Concerto in C.

Perceptive throughout, with only the smallest nod in the direction of lyricism, the Prokofiev concerto is splendidly suited to the talents of Mr. Janis. He gave the audience a muscular, dynamic performance, bringing the program to a whirling and exciting conclusion with the frenetic waltz that ends the Prokofiev work.

The program was rewarding, although the inclusion of a war-horse like the "Leonore" overture might be questioned. (Did Mr. Harsanyi really mean to honor the state's third century by choosing three compositions each labeled "Number Three"? We have no quarrel with this kind MUSIC IN A FESTIVAL GARDEN: At intermission time, guests at the Tercentenary Music Festival may have a cooling soft drink in a garden outside the Festival music tent on the Westminster Choir College campus. of programming — just curiosity.) The Festival Symphony is a good orchestra, well-rehearsed, responsive to both Mr. Harsanyi and Mr. Janis, and thoroughly competent in every way. In fact, its competence seemed to surprise many of the people who came to the opening night concert. As the word gets around, subsequent concerts may draw larger crowds than the opening night audience that left many vacant seats in the 2,000-capacity Festival tent.

BENNY'S FROM HEAVEN?
Or, "Goodman Whose He?" "He's still The King!" "He's square." "He's both." Monday night's "Evening With Benny Goodman" at the New Jersey Festival of Music was a kind of musical Flea Market: a little of this, a lot of that, and about 1,500 customers, giving 1,500 different opinions.

One thing's for sure. Goodman can work classical, mad. Goodman can also read in the jazz idiom, professor.

But both Pratt and Whitney can outlast any number of Goodman's. Their airplane engines, with their interminable thrumming, may not make music, yet even from 5,000 feet they make a lot of noise.

Such noise, indeed, that a "Concerto for Clarinet and Four Propellers" would have helped on Monday. Or maybe just an anti-aircraft battery.

Is only one thing is more disconcerting than airplane roar at an outdoor performance: freight-car bangs. Sometime in Philadelphia's Robin Hood Dell. After that, the festival's tent will seem soundproof.

But back to Goodman. First part of his program was a clarinet and piano exercise in Poulenc and three clarinet solos written by Stravinsky. Too much oral flatulence in the Stravinskys, but Poulenc fine.

Second part of the program produced typical Goodman small combo instrumentation — plus Bobby Hackett on cornet. "Memories of You" best, but many others were better than satisfactory.

Among them: "Ain't Misbehavin'," "Night and Day," "Avalon," and "Honeydew Rose." And particularly good: "If I Had You."

Mr. Goodman repeats here on July 2. So, whether you're a Goodman veteran or novice, go and listen — to the music, not to the airplanes.

This Wednesday, a concert of works by contemporary Princeton composers will occupy the orchestra. Milton Babbitt, Edward Cone, James K. Randall and Roger Sessions will be featured.

This Thursday, a chorus and orchestra composed of young musicians studying on Rotary Tercentenary scholarships will perform from the classic and modern repertory. The chorus will be directed by George Lane and the orchestra by Bruce McKinney.

On Friday and again on Sunday, Erica Morini will play the Tchaikowsky Violin con-

SPORTS In Princeton

TIGERS 2D OUT OF 8

In Ivy Won-Lost Averages. Far below Harvard's fantastic year but ahead of the other six teams in final won-lost averages for 1963-64. That's the story told by the figures released this week by Bill Striker, Princeton's Director of Sports Information.

Completing one of the best years ever credited to an Ivy college, Harvard rolled over the opposition at a winning clip of .740. It's 15th victory over Yale in the annual crew race at New London, that number of successes were a mere 51 defeats and five ties.

Well behind this was Princeton, with a .563 record based on 130 victories, 88 defeats and two ties. However, the Tigers led all the rest of the Ivies and, with Cornell and Harvard, were one of three to top the tell-tale 500 mark.

Following in order were Brown, .491; Yale, .489; Pennsylvania, .474; Dartmouth, .466; and Columbia, .477. Figures compiled represent only varsity team records.

Eli Freshmen Lead. The Class of 1967 at New Haven was the best, athletically-speaking, of the eight Ivy colleges. Yale freshmen turned back the opposition at a .713 clip. Princeton was fourth in this category, its first-year class winning 658 percent of the contests in which it took part.

Ahead of the Tigers were Cornell and Harvard; behind them, Brown, Columbia, Dartmouth and Penn. In that order. All but Penn freshman teams won better than half their contests.

Five Teams Outstanding. Paced by the tennis team's unbeaten record of 12 and 0 which stretched its consecutive-match winning streak to 16, Princeton won two championships and tied for two more. John Coaroy's tennis players won the Eastern Association title for a fourth straight year, and Bill Van Breda Kolff's basketball team defended its Ivy League title successfully while compiling a fine 20-and-9 mark.

In football, Dick Colman directed Princeton to a tie for the Ivy title with Dartmouth while winning seven and losing two. Ferris Thompson's lacrosse team ket its spot at the top of the Ivy League but shared first place in a three-way tie with Dartmouth and Harvard. The record in soccer was a good 7 and 2, with the squash team losing only to Harvard in ten matches.

Tigers Against the Ivies
Princeton teams fared well against every Ivy opponent last year save Harvard. In contests with the Crimson, wearers of the Orange and Black won only five out of 19 times.

The Tigers compiled a winning percentage of .600 against Yale and had matters almost completely their own way with Pennsylvania, taking 14 of the 18 meetings with the Quakers. This is the Ivy story for 1963-64, with teams ranked in descending order of Princeton's success against them:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Penn	14	2	2	.875
Columbia	11	4	0	.733
Cornell	11	4	1	.719
Brown	7	4	0	.636
Dartmouth	7	0	6	.636
Yale	12	8	0	.600
Harvard	5	14	0	.263

Only three varsity teams failed to break even. The lowest mark was posted by the wrestlers (2 and 8), followed by the hockey team at 8 and 16. The baseball team went 8 tied one and lost 15.

Records well above average were compiled by three freshman teams. The best performances were in swimming, 14-1; basketball, 12-2; and tennis, 7-2-1.

TIGERS 4TH IN CREW

Pine Showers at Syracuse. A considerably better performance than had been expected of it was credited to Princeton's heavyweight crew in the national regatta last weekend at Syracuse. After upsetting third-seeded Wisconsin on the Friday heat, the Tigers placed fourth in Saturday's six boat final.

Washington — eventual runner-up to victorious California — took the heat in which Princeton rowed Friday over the Olympic distance of 2000 meters. The Huskies were timed in 6:07.4, finishing about three-quarters of a length ahead of the Orange and Black, which led Brown by the same distance. Wisconsin, an early favorite to reach the final, trailed Princeton by better than a length.

On Saturday, California returned West Coast rowing to the dominant spot in the national picture, covering the entire distance at a best close 50

Engineering Research remained tied with Accelerator for third place, outscoring Hopewell TV, 18-12. Don Musinski won it for ERC, helped by four batters by Bob Easton. Don Machusick and Bill Peterbend. Ken Haagland and Joe Castora, the loosing pitcher, both got four hits in five trips for Hopewell TV.

In the fourth game, Electro-Mechanical Research put on a late rally to drop Princeton Hospital, 13-7. Ernie Bowers went 4 for 4 including a home run for EMR and Fred Trimmer collected three hits in a losing cause. Paul Crea bested Paul Wilkins for the win.

TOURNAMENT STARTS

For Governor's Cup, Eight teams qualified Saturday for the Governor's Cup at the Springdale Golf Club. By the time first-round eliminations had ended in 92-degree heat Sunday, the field had been cut in half.

With two-man teams receiving 75 percent of their handicaps in medal play against par, it was par that took the beating in the qualifying round. Five under was needed to qualify.

Topping the entry list of nearly 30 teams were Harold Houghton and Leonard Berry with a 64. Close behind at 65 were Brud Cook and Bill Bonthron; Jack Kauffman and Don Donahue; Karl Pettit and Moore Gates; Ross Shrader and Charlie Smith, all at 65; Glen Miller and Mac Morris; George Hannah and Pete Maroni; Roland Smith and Charlie Foster, all with 66.

In first round play, two of the matches went into extra holes under the scorching sun. Don Donahue holed a birdie 1 from just off the green on the 19th to give his team a 1-up victory over Miller and Morris, while the Roland Smith-Foster combine went 20 holes before ousting Shrader and Charlie Smith.

Brud Cook's 33 on the outgoing nine was all that he and Bill Bonthron needed to top Houghton and Berry, 4 and 3. Pettit and Gates are the other quarter-finalists on the basis of their 3-and-2 triumphs over Hannah and Maroni. In the semi-finals to be played this weekend, Bonthron and Cook face Kauffman and Donahue, with Roland Smith and Foster opposing Pettit and Gates.

Five in State Open. Springdale will be represented this Thursday by five members in the qualifying round of the New Jersey State Open. They will play 18 holes at the Trenton Country Club.

Al Niederlitz, the club's assistant pro, and four amateurs will seek to qualify for the state Open title. They are Maury Mather, Hy Young, Frank Pettit and Elliott McVitty.

BUSINESS In Princeton

NASSAU INN RENEWED
Decoration Plan Progresses.
"Only the main part of the Nassau Inn was built when Washington slept there," is a comment recently made by an old Princeton resident, of three-years' tenure to a visiting friend. Truth is, of course, that the Inn was not built until the mid-30's, but the Colonial atmosphere is sufficiently authentic to fool anyone who does not know the building's history. Maintaining this distinctive atmosphere and appearance while providing the modern accommodations for guests is the problem constantly facing William G. Bohm, manager of the Inn. Now in the midst of a redecorating program, the Nass is now concentrating on refurbishing the rooms in the older section of the building, Mr. Bohm says.

Each room is being completely stripped and redone to the specifications of a team of designers and decorators. When completed, the accommodations will compare in every respect with those in the new wing.

Washington didn't sleep here," Mr. Bohm points out. "But if he could now he'd find individually controlled air conditioning, television, service phones in his room, and swimming in our outdoor pool. As for maintaining the Colonial appearance—there's no question about it. The exterior and the lobby will remain unchanged, the Yankee Doodle Tap Room will stay as is, and in the Colonial Dining Room the fine, non-Colonial cuisine will still be available, says Mr. Bohm.

BUILDER WINS AWARD
From "Parents' Magazine." The builders of Princeton Ridge, Rocky Hill, have received the 1964 Honor Award from Parents Magazine for their house called the "Stockton."

The winning home is a five-bedroom, three-bath house which sells for $34,900. It is located in Rocky Hill on the Princeton Ridge tract.

Parents Magazine gives the Honor Award to home builders who contribute the best design and construction of houses for the particular needs of families with children.

To win a house must have at least one expansion possibility; separate indoor play area; adequate storage and laundry space; well-planned kitchen; and high-grade building materials and equipment throughout. In addition, the house must make "an architectural contribution from the aesthetic standpoint."

The builders of Princeton Ridge are Stanley Pitshaw and James Kratz of Princeton. The model of the "Stockton" is open for inspection in Rocky Hill.

PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVES
Between Brown and Mangum. The partnership between Carl E. Brown and Charles B. Mangum, run under the firm name of Brown and Mangum, has been dissolved. Mr. Brown will carry on a similar business at 198 Wisconsin Street, and Mr. Mangum will operate at 162 John Street. The performance house and office cleaning services.

APPOINTMENT MADE
By Carter-Princeton. Carter-Princeton of 178 Alexander Street, electronics division of Carter Products, has announced the appointment of a sales engineering firm, E. E. Specialists of Boxborough, Mass. The firm will serve as its sales representative for the new New England area. James M. Cartledge, manager of technical sales, has announced. Mr. Cartledge noted that "this appointment is a continuation of the company's planned expansion program to provide complete engineering services in this country and abroad."

TO DESIGN DORMITORY
Fulmer & Bowers Named. A new four-story residence hall at the College of St. Elizabeth, Morrisstown, will be designed by Fulmer and Bowers of Princeton.

The building will serve as dormitory for 125 students during the academic year, and as a summer-school residence for men during the summer. Single and double rooms will be combined with small lounges, isolated study rooms, clean large areas for recreation, balconies and terraces to achieve flexibility and an air of informality.

which all Princeton area alumni will be invited, is scheduled for Saturday morning, October 17, in a tent (orange and black) adjoining Palmer Stadium. Following a business meeting and the election of officers, wives and guests will join the group for lunch before the Colgate game.

Meanwhile, "Why isn't there a Princeton Club of Princeton?" is finally a dead question. There now is. Only just so nobody thinks there is a building included in the deal, it's being called the Princeton Area Alumni Association.

TO AIR AUTO RACES
From Watkins Glen. Station WHWH will broadcast the U. S. Road Racing Championships to be held this Sunday in Watkins Glen, N.Y. The first segment will be carried between 12:30 and 2:15 p. m. Half-hour and quarter-hour reports will be made throughout the afternoon.

Drivers competing in the Watkins Glen Classic include Jim Hall, Roger Penske, Ken Miles, and Bob Holbert, 1963 year's winner. At the mike for WHWH will be Les Keiter and Chris Economaki.

The station, which broadcast the 100-mile National Championship at Langhorne last Sunday, will also air the Road America 500 in September, the Riverside, Calif. Grand Prix in October, and the Sebring 12-hour Grand Prix next March.

FIRST, THE LEMONADE
Then Literature. "Lemonade and Literature," the summer-over Coffee" will be offered by the Princeton Public Library on five Friday mornings starting this Friday. Lemonade will be served at 10 and literature will end at 11. The readings, designed for light summer listening, will be presented by Dr. Daniel Ercovod of the speech department of Temple University.

This Friday's program will consist of comments on living with children, as set down by Jean, Robert Jackson, Phyllis McGinley and Lin-Yutang. On July 3, Mr. Ercovod will read at the coming holiday by reading from Mark Twain, Robert Benchley and Richard Armour.

For July 10, the topic is cate seen through the eyes of Aldous Huxley, and Jean Cocteau. On July 17, Dr. Ercovod will read three short stories by O. Henry and on July 24, he will explore the poetry of William S. Eliot, Carl Sandburg and Robert Frost.

TWO HOMES ENTERED
In Township. Two Princeton Township homes were entered last week and in both instances the thieves made off with an undetermined amount of loot. Sometime during the week-end, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson P. English, 79 Laurel Road, was entered by jimmying a rear door. Once inside, the intruders ransacked the entire house, according to Fred Porter, Township detective, who is investigating.

Detective Porter revealed that a pillow case was missing and that he believes was used to carry away stolen items, but he added that, at the moment, the police do not know what was taken. The theft was reported by Mrs. Emanuel Walecki of Princeton-Kingdon who were away for the owners who were away on a trip.

Late Friday evening or early Saturday, an undetermined amount of jewelry, including a pair of binoculars, was taken from an upstairs bedroom in

Firemen to March
The annual parade and inspection of the Princeton Fire Department will be held Friday evening, starting at 7.

The parade will leave Chambers Street and proceed east on Nassau to Olden, ending at the engineering quadrangle at approximately 1:30. The mayor, members of the Borough Council and Fire Chief Robert F. Mooney will be on hand to inspect the men and apparatus in ceremonies held on the steps of the quadrangle.

the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Glider, 12 Sandy Brook Lane. Again, entry was made via a rear door.

There were additional similarities between the two thefts, police said. In both, the contents of dresser drawers and closets were strewn about, and a pillow case was missing. The Gliders, who had been out for the evening, were unable to determine the exact amount of jewelry stolen.

SEE YOU IN SEPTEMBER
Car-Wash Adjourned. Complex property negotiations have brought the Princeton Township car-wash skirmish to a halt.

As the Zoning Board meeting Thursday night, Seymour Montgomery, attorney for the prospective owners of the car-wash, asked the board to postpone the hearing until matters involving sewer easements and the like, could be worked out with the present owners of the property. The board agreed to the postponement.

News Of The CHURCHES

THE SEARCH IS ON
For The Unchurched. Princetonians who turn a deaf ear to Sunday church bells will be discussed at a report meeting this Sunday.

An interdenominational group will comment on the results of its pilot survey at an 8 p.m. session in Calvary Baptist Church. Decisions will be made as to future action. The unit leader is the Rev. Chris M. Meadows of the James Foundation. New York chairman of the Calvary Baptist board of deacons. The cooperation of member churches of the Princeton Pastors' Association, St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, The Jewish Center and Western Roman Church made the survey possible.

Home Mission. It was Calvary Baptist Church which proposed to the Pastors' Association that the exploratory study be made to search out non-churchgoers has often been expressed by local clergymen.

The Rev. F. Hugh Liftin of Second Presbyterian estimated a year ago, "I think about two-thirds of Princeton's youth is not under any religious instruction. Fifty percent of the parents are not churchgoers. This is a tremendous challenge."

The spade work was done by Mrs. Anthony Anderson, who delivered Community Phone books to church offices where members names were crossed off. She then correlated all of the books into one, using different colored pencils for each church as a safeguard.

Volunteers from the various churches then took sample pages from the directory and made phone calls to residents who apparently have no church connections.

"Months of work have gone into this," the Rev. Kenneth Dannenhorst of Calvary Baptist remarks, "but it's still in the exploratory stage."

MORMONS OPPOSED
By Presbyterian Pastor. "Two Mormon elders have been visiting a lot of Plainsboro homes lately," the Rev. Robert L. Blackwell of Plainsboro Presbyterian Church said Tuesday. "So I invited them to talk before our young adults."

The Rev. Mr. Blackwell's commentary on the Mormons went out to his congregation in a newsletter this week.

"I was impressed with their youthful sincerity; their quiet manner, and their missionary zeal."

"Apart from these fine personal qualities, I discovered the Mormon Church... to be extra-Biblical, non-Christocentric, non-Trinitarian, and Big Business. Perhaps it is none of these, but from the elders' presentation, these are the only conclusions I can draw."

He said that the "Mormons look outside of the Bible to the Book of Mormon for most of their instruction and traditions. They do not accept the Bible as the whole revelation of God, but claim the Book of Mormon—written on tablets of gold discovered by Joseph Smith, translated by him, and then lost—takes precedence over the Bible and teacher in their relationship of God to man."

Mr. Blackwell stated, "The Mormons do not see Christ at the center of their faith. At least, this is the impression I have since they did not mention His importance once during the visit. Instead, they frequently mentioned Joseph Smith, their founder. While he taught, they now teach; his words are now the words."

"And they see the 12 apostles of their Church keeping alive Smith's inspiration and example... Our belief rests squarely upon unchanging Christ, and not upon one like Joseph Smith."

"Nor are the Mormons Trinitarians, because they do not believe in the ongoing work of the Holy Spirit. This is by their own admission."

The testimony they gave

FULFILLED HOPES: The $125,000 mortgage negotiated by Princeton Methodist Church in 1958, was borned with all due ceremony Sunday during the worship service.

He presided off the Rev. Charles W. Marker, pastor; the Rev. George B. Probert, district superintendent; Dr. Chester A. McKinley, building committee chairman, and B. Woodhall Davis, president of the trustees.

He said in effect that after the original apostles died, the Christian Church lost its power to win men to God in other words, the Holy Spirit is not at work in the Christian Church. Now, no one contends the Church of Christ is perfect... but we do assert that the Church of the ages is the best movement the world has ever known, and only the counsel and guidance of the Holy Spirit has made this a historical fact.

"Finally, if these three crucial deviations from the Christian religion are not enough discredit, it needs to be said that the Mormon Church is Big Business. Their first step, 'What is a Mormon?' made this very clear. It found nothing about the belief, but dealt rather with the corporation structure of their Church as by a board of directors known as the 12 apostles from the main office in Salt Lake City, the Mormon Church invited its visitor to become a member of the 'fastest growing denomination in the world.'"

"Assets of membership include the opportunity to participate in the 'oldest continuous ladies' work in America' and the 'largest basketball league in the world.'"

"Assets of membership include the opportunity to participate in the 'oldest continuous ladies' work in America' and the 'largest basketball league in the world.'"

Blackwell invited his congregation to share with him its reaction to the elders' visits in their homes. A number have already called. It was Tuesday.

INSTALLATION SET
At First Baptist Church, The Rev. Sterling Glover of Scotch Plains will conduct the installation service at 4:30 Sunday for the Rev. Edward Smith at First Baptist Church. Mrs. Bessie Christian will be in charge of the music.

ELECTRIC HEATING
UP-DATE...
This elegant relic reminds us of bygone days. Be elegant, better your days ahead with total electric home heating.

IMPROVED LIVABILITY, INCREASED VALUE

Change Over to Electrical Heating System Said to Provide Both "Sometimes you come out money ahead by spending it."

So concluded a panelist on a family-spending broadcast discussion.

The question had been:

"Our house is definitely getting more lovable to us as the years go by, but less livable. We can't see our way clear to starting over just now, because it's just great for the kids. Furthermore, there's the matter of money. . . . The house is drafty, in winter, not in summer. Repair bills are high, and the wiring won't take the load of air conditioning. Where do we go from here?"

"Go to a contractor at once. Make plans for not a little make-do, but a make-a-big-difference job of putting in a total electrical heating system and adequate insulation."

"Then head for the bank and get a nice surprise."

"If you're dealing with a reputable contractor and getting a first rate job, you'll get your financing without a hitch as a rule. . . . and it's a pretty good feeling when you know the experts are willing to bank on you."

"There seems to be a private arithmetic that adds up like this:

"You think you're thinking only about your own comfort, but it turns out that far from making any sacrifice, you're really increasing the value of your property."

"The heavy housewiring installed for the heating system, will also handle air conditioning needs when and if it is wanted."

"Maintenance costs for the old heating system can be put to better use since electrical heating is virtually maintenance free."

"Electrical heating systems last the life of a house, it is expected, so that holds the value up should you want to sell after all a few years from now."

"And . . . the kind of insulation good contractors advise with electrical heating so definitely improves livability that not only are the drafts eliminated in the winter, but the worst of the summer heat can't get in."

QUESTION BOX

Q. I wanted the thermostats recessed like the electrical baseboard, but our contractor insisted they must be mounted flat which means the thermostat protrudes. Why?

A. Flush mounting or recessing of electrical heating elements themselves in no way interferes with optimum performance.

With the thermostat, however, for accuracy of temperature delivered as temperature, the thermostat has to "sense" room temperature. Hence it must be slightly away from the wall.

Esthetically, however, very attractive thermostat designs are on the market.

There's even one of transparent plastic that will tie in a wallpaper pattern without interfering with efficiency.

ABOUT A YEAR AGO, I began to wonder what all those sportscar people were doing. But I was a 1962 Austin-Healey MK II 2000.
Now, with a small Fiat, Miller and spring of howling but calm and whining behind me, I am ready to sell.

She is a good car, but she has a lot of forward speed (electric override) and a lot of power but my tendency shifting. She is no radio you are going to have to be controlled. But she is otherwise loading. She is a real beauty. I have hundreds of a windshield washer,
a movable windshield, a mechanic speaking, mechanics say she will sound as if she have just monitored her for the second time near to you will be impressed with her body.

I found out what those sportscar people were doing and am ready to sell. But I am not. If you want to find out and you have a car that is around 1962, call 924-5279 and I'll sell you the services of a very and uncompromising lady.

and the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League wish to remind you that if you are going away on vacation or leaving your pet permanently, you should have your pet spayed or neutered. This is a humane and responsible thing to do. It will save you the expense of a $250 dollar six months' imprisonment, or both.

THE SMALL ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE points out that it is to be expected that many of the animals that are often found in Mrs. Graves' adoption cages are the result of the adoption of 8 years of the Small Animal Rescue League. 971-0127. It always glad to answer inquiries concerning such problems. 6-11-61
